Who we are

Founded in 1955, TRB has grown from a state-owned maintenance and overhaul facility into a modern defence industry company with decades of experience in engineering, manufacturing, and system integration. Built on a strong heritage and continuous research & development, we combine Eastern and Western technologies to deliver reliable, innovative, and mission-ready solutions worldwide.

Our greatest strength is our experienced team of engineers, former military professionals, architects, and project managers who provide the expertise needed to support complex defence and security projects. Guided by the highest ethical standards and responsible business conduct, we are committed to long-term partnerships, quality, and continuous improvement.

What we do

TRB develops, engineers, manufactures, and supports a wide portfolio of defence and security products, integrated systems, and turnkey solutions tailored to customer requirements. Our product range includes military equipment, integrated security solutions, vehicle systems, protective systems, and specialized defence technologies designed to meet modern operational challenges.

As a defence system integrator, we provide complete end-to-end capabilities — from factory development and technology transfer to training, mentoring, equipping, and operational support. We work closely with partners across Eastern Europe, Africa, and the Middle East to strengthen defence capabilities through cost-effective, customized, and sustainable solutions.
